

cut-e GmbH is awarded the ISO/IEC 27001 certificate for information security management systems cut-e GmbH has been awarded the ISO/IEC 27001 certificate for information security management system. This means that its clients can be assured that their sensitive information is secure and protected.

15.03.2015

As part of its commitment to developing robust and trusted psychometric instruments and solutions for its clients, cut-e GmbH has undergone a thorough and independent audit and review process and has been accredited with this standard.

Dr Achim Preuss, Managing Director and Co-Founder of cut-e Group comments, "We are delighted to have been awarded this level of certification as it recognises the promise we make to our clients in terms of developing and providing tools and systems in which they can trust. We have a strong IT development team and have invested over the years in building a secure approach to managing and protecting sensitive information. This is an internationally recognised standard for the evaluation of information security and IT environments – and we are pleased that TÜV PROFICERT has reviewed and audited us and awarded this certification."
